ABOUT THE CLUB

FROM THE BOARD OF GOVERNORS

This handbook was designed to help you and your family derive the most from your membership in the Eel River Beach Club. The Club is run by members for its members and is a non-profit club. We pride ourselves on being a family club providing recreation and social activities for all ages. As such, the Club is more than tennis courts and two pools alongside Plymouth Beach. For many members, the Club is a summer home-away-from-home and a place for relaxing with friends while children enjoy closely supervised recreational activities. This is the atmosphere that your Board of Governors works diligently to preserve.

“We pride ourselves on being a family club providing recreation and social activities for all ages.”

Any club that works for its entire membership must have rules and regulations. Such rules are needed to ensure the safety and enjoyment of all members and guests, and as such, must be strictly enforced. Enforcement is the responsibility of the Club staff, supported by your Board. Please remember that the staff does not make the rules, but they will enforce them. The rules and regulations are an integral part of this handbook. Please familiarize yourself with them, as you will be expected to abide by them. They are provided for clarity and for uniform treatment of all members and guests.

Please remember that the Eel River Beach Club needs an active, involved membership to stay vibrant and healthy. Members are urged to support the Club by pitching in on Clean Up Day, at social functions, swim meets and tennis tournaments. Remember, this is a nonprofit club run for your enjoyment. So, pitch in and help out. Enjoy the Club to its fullest and be considerate of fellow members.

HISTORY OF EEL RIVER BEACH CLUB

In 1929, a group of primarily summer residents of Plymouth formed the Eel River Beach Club Trust. The land on which the Club now stands was held by Eel River Farm, Inc. The owner, Hattie Hornblower, agreed to sell the 10 3/4 acres of land which included the 2.46 acres of public beach in front of the Club to the trust for $50,000.

One of the trustees, Sidney Strickland, an architect, drew up plans for an elegant, stucco, two-story clubhouse with kitchen facilities, servant's quarters, dining room, ball room, and up- and down-stairs bars. The second floor had a balcony over-looking the pool and the roof was of imported red Italian tile. A separate bathhouse included lockers for your racquets, etc. and a laundry (the former "Pro Shop" building) that supplied towels and at which you could leave your bathing suit to be cleaned and dried for the next day. (The original architect's drawing appears on the inside front cover.)

"...you could leave your bathing suit to be cleaned and dried for the next day."

The pool, originally a single pool, 35 yards long, was designed to be filled with either fresh or salt water. The first fresh-water filling, however, caused such a drain on the town water supply as to damage hot water heaters on Manter's point. From then on, the pool was filled from the ocean. There being no filtration system, it was drained and refilled every three to seven days to keep the water clean. Each summer, a group of volunteers had to install a six-inch line across the beach to the ocean, which was taken up again in the fall to avoid damage by winter storms. The original tennis courts were clay courts, adjacent to the pool (where the current "lower" courts are), and were brushed after each match and rolled and watered daily.

The clubhouse, bathhouse, pool, and tennis courts were built in 1929 and enjoyed until the early 40's, when the floor of the clubhouse collapsed during dancing at a wedding reception held at the club. The clubhouse had apparently suffered major structural damage due to dampness. The floor was repaired once, but an ensuing hurricane was the coupe de grace—more money had gone into the roof tiles than into the foundation. Due to the nature of the damage and the estimated cost of repairs, it was decided the only reasonable course was to tear the clubhouse down. (The clubhouse stood at the deep end of the pool, where the lawn is currently.)

In 1945 a second trust was formed as the first trust had out-lived its usefulness—the trust had been operating at a loss for several years, the bank was concerned that the razing of the clubhouse left insufficient equity to back outstanding loans, and the trust had defaulted on its payments to Mrs. Hornblower. Through her generosity, the land was donated to the club. A subscription was solicited from the original trust shareholders to defray the outstanding mortgage liabilities.

Through the work of this same group, legislation was enacted that created the concept of non-profit social and athletic organizations, of which the Eel River Beach Club, Inc. was the first in the state. The second trust conveyed the land, buildings, and other assets and liabilities to the Eel

River Beach Club, Inc. Those who had subscribed to defray the loans, and a representative from the Hornblower family, were named as the Incorporators of the club. (To put things in perspective, each incorporator invested $500 in the new club; in the first year of operation, annual family dues were $40, a junior membership was $25, and there was a guest fee of 50¢ per day.)

In 1948, additional investments of $200 each by the incorporators were used to convert part of the bathhouse to clubhouse use. The current breezeway area was made by reorganizing the lockers and installing overhead doors so that it could be opened during the day. In the 50's, the original walls of the bathhouse had become structurally unsound and were replaced by the current cinder block.

In the early 60's the club sold the 2.46 acres of beach to the town, as the public was using it without our assent, and the real estate taxes were substantial. The sale enabled the town to build the seawall on town land, which would also give the club protection from winter storms. The $6500 received from the town helped to pay for two new asphalt tennis courts on the Warren Avenue side of the Club. The original clay courts at the south end of the pool were also converted to asphalt, to save on the annual maintenance and increase the playing season.

The "Pop Shop", which was started to create a summer job for one of the young members (originally where the "Pro Shop" is now located), was rebuilt in the late 60's by a group of members, by again reorganizing the lockers in the bathhouse, to its current location.

The pool was rebuilt in the 70's to its current configuration, and a filtration system was installed. Increased membership at the club made the old system of changing the water every three days both unsanitary and inconvenient (the pool had to be drained and filled with the tides, and was thus often empty during the middle of the day, unless the lifeguards took it upon themselves to "volunteer" to do the operation in the middle of the night). Interest in competitive swimming was at a peak at that time, and the non-standard pool size was a sore point with the other teams in the league, so the opportunity was taken to make the pool a regulation length and create the "baby pool". (The club had won the championship of the South Shore Swim League for the first six years of its existence. Certainly the fact that it had the only pool large enough for the league meet, and that pool being 10 yards longer than any other in the league gave a bit of a "home court" advantage!)

The winter storm of 1978 did substantial damage to the club grounds and facilities. However, the Club qualified for a low-interest government disaster loan, which enabled the club to restructure its debt and do the needed repairs, which included the present septic system located at the bend in the driveway near Warren Avenue.

The "Beach Club" is a testimony both to the many far-sighted people who not only conceived the idea of a family swimming and tennis club, but who contributed generously their time and money to its creation; and also to the many individuals who followed, unselfishly giving their time and talents to perpetuate the original concept. It seems that each year new contributors step forward to take their turn, usually motivated by seeing the wonderful benefits provided by the Club's physical plant and wholesome atmosphere for their families, children, and grandchildren. There are families who have participated for generations; there are new-comers who have stepped into the breach and provided great dedication and inspiring creativity. It is this spirit of generosity, from the founders to the newest member that makes the Club what it is today.

CLUB GOVERNMENT

According to the Club charter, and the statutes under which it was formed, no-one can benefit from the assets of the Club; the only possible disposition of club assets is to transfer them to another charitable organization. Because the club is a non-profit organization, it depends heavily on volunteers for its operation. (If you are interested in being more involved with the operation of the club and can volunteer your time, speak to any board member!)

The club management is overseen by several volunteer groups: the “Board of Incorporators”, a perpetuation of the original incorporator group, is today made up of a small group of long-time members in good standing. Technically, the Incorporators have only two jobs: to appoint the “Board of Governors”, and, should the need arise, to oversee the dissolution of the corporation. In actuality, the primary purpose served by the Incorporators has been to pass on the history and tradition of the club to new governors. The Incorporators meet at least once a year to appoint new governors to replace those whose terms have expired, although they often sit ex officio on the Governors’ meetings.

The Board of Governors is appointed by the Incorporators from the club membership. The charter calls for a board of 6 to 10 governors, serving on staggered, six-year terms. The Governors oversee the operation of the club, its dues, budget, staffing, repairs, improvements, etc. The governors elect their own officers, including a president, vice-president, treasurer, and secretary. The Governors meet on a regular basis throughout the year.

The Board of Governors creates committees to oversee various aspects of club operations. The “Management Committee” created in 1996 to replace its predecessor, the “House Committee”, is designed to provide the membership with a visible and receptive means to address concerns with Club policy and administration. The committee also reports directly to the President, who meets regularly with the committee to resolve issues and ensure the smooth running of the Club.

The members of the boards and committees are listed in the member directory, and you will often find them operating a back-hoe, paint-roller, broom, or weed-whacker at the club as part of their “overseeing” its operation. While the members of the boards and committees are open to suggestions at any time, please remember that these are volunteer positions and the best way to get a suggestion implemented is to volunteer to do it yourself!
